National Recruitment-to-Recruitment Professionals

Why we are first choice for recruiting recruitment consultants:

Brannon focuses purely on recruitment-to-recruitment – we're true specialists. So, when you choose Brannon as your recruitment partner you can be sure that employing recruiters is as important to our organisation as it is to yours. We recruit experienced consultants to management level staff across all sectors of the recruitment market.

More and more Professional Recruitment Consultants are using us to further their careers.

Candidates value our honest approach and clients appreciate the calibre of people we introduce to them. We provide clients with a candid and comprehensive introduction of every candidate, which includes an assessment of their level of current billings, analysis of financial activity in recent roles and sales specific psychometric profiling benchmarked against the recruitment industry. Every candidate who is submitted to our clients is done so with an individually compiled Personal Profile which details our interview results as well as our view of their new business and account management abilities. This Personal Profile will be the summary of our professional recommendation to you regarding the suitability of our candidate for the role.

We believe in quality over quantity. We only forward candidates who we believe are the top recruiters in the market, have proved their worth and have the right sales attitude. If we don't have those people on our database, then we will be upfront about it. After all, it is openness and trust that builds long term client partnerships – and it is these partnerships that set us apart as a consultancy.

About us:

Brannon was built on the belief that a consultancy should be professional and personable at the same time.

Our blend of sector knowledge, best-practice assessment methods and intelligent advice has proved to be a winning formula and we continue to expand at an impressive rate. We concentrate on doing what we do best and that has led to a fantastic record of repeat business and sustained growth.

We measure ourselves against your recruitment criteria and add value to your process by easing your workload and securing the right talent for your business.
